

BOARD REBELS FROM GAG RULE OF MAYOR LANE

Logan and Hollinger Refuse to Let Executive Stifle Discussion of Rathburn Matter

"The Rebellion of the Board" is not a motion picture for Sunday exhibition, or any other exhibition. It is what is happening in the ranks of the supervisors of Honolulu, and it first evidenced itself in organization at last night's meeting.

The board is rebelling against the gag rule of Mayor Lane and the alleged resort to the "gag" by Mayor Lane when opponents of the executive's favored legislation arise to speak at board meetings. Logan and Hollinger led the rebellion last night.

It appears on the surface to bear a resemblance to the fight made on "Uncle Joe" Cannon just before the veteran speaker of the house of representatives was defeated a few years ago. Cannon was accused of enforcing the "gag" rule.

A few days ago 126 citizens of the Honolulu district filed a petition with the board in Hawaiian complaining against Road Overseer Rathburn, one of the appointees of City Engineer Whitehouse, who is one of the appointees of Mayor Lane. This petition charged, among other things, that Rathburn is violating the statutes in regard to certain methods of getting compensation. The mayor removed the petition before it came before the board, had it translated into English, and had a translated copy given to Rathburn.

But the translation was never put before the board. The original petition, without any accompanying translation, was filed again with the board, or rather returned to the board's clerk by Mayor Lane. Without being read or without any motion being made, Mayor Lane referred the matter to the roads committee of which Robert Shingle, who was appointed by the mayor, is chairman.

When the roads committee reported that it would hold a hearing June 17, Hollinger demanded that the board be informed what the petition contained. He objected to the mayor referring the matter to the committee without the board first being apprised of the contents of the petition.

"Why didn't you object when the petition came up?" demanded the mayor.

"You wouldn't give me any chance," answered Hollinger, "I tried to object but you shut me up."

"You bet," chimed in Larsen. "This matter was slipped over us here. We are public servants, Mr. Mayor, the same as you, and we demand to know what comes before this board. I am with Mr. Hollinger." Hollinger again attempted to speak.

"The chair rules you out of order, the question is—" interrupted the mayor again and again, but Hollinger refused to be "gagged."

"I think it is about time that this board had a permanent set of rules to take the place of the temporary ones which now govern it," said Hollinger. "I have a right to talk on any matter that comes before the board."

"The question is—" again interrupted the mayor.

"I appeal from the ruling of the chair," insisted Hollinger.

"To appeal from the ruling of the chair," said the mayor, "you must have the unanimous consent of the board."

Arnold jumped to his feet. "Mr. Mayor," he said, "I move that unanimous consent be given Mr. Hollinger to discuss this matter."

The board sided in with Hollinger and the "gag" did not work this time.

"It's time to take this matter into our own hands, and have our own set of rules," added Larsen.

MRS. ATCHERLEY LOSES HISTORIC FIGHT FOR LAND

24, 1914, another phase of the matter having been presented, a final decree was handed down, holding against Lewers & Cooke, the company thereupon appealing to the supreme court of the United States. In 1911 the U. S. supreme court rendered a decision affirming the decree of the Hawaiian tribunal.

The next important development in the case was an allied matter in which virtually the same issues and points of law were involved. Mrs. Atcherley was still fighting the Kapiolani estate. The estate wanted an injunction against an action at law and to declare a trust. Mrs. Atcherley about this time having been adjudged a bankrupt. This phase of the fight also went through the local court and up to the supreme court of the United States as the case of the Kapiolani estate vs. Mary H. Atcherley.

Judge Robertson, chief justice of the local bench, wrote the majority opinion in the Hawaiian supreme court decision, an opinion concurred in by the associate justices with the exception that Justice Perry dissented in part. In this opinion, Judge Robertson, in a closely but clearly reasoned statement held that the supreme court of Hawaii in the Lewers & Cooke case had materially erred. Without criticizing the supreme court of the United States he reiterated his belief that the local court had made a mistake and, left it to the United States court to take action if it should agree with his sentiments.

At one point he said: "I should feel inclined to depart from the ruling made in the Lewers & Cooke case were we not bound by it because of its having been affirmed by the United States supreme court."

The main question involved, as explained by an attorney this morning, was the legality of the guardianship of Kalakaua, and hence the validity of his title to the land given him by the chiefs Kani. This was complicated by the fact that Kinimaka, the Hawaiian who became Kalakaua's guardian, had held the property as trustee and his dealings with it, it was claimed, had clouded the title. In the Lewers & Cooke case the court had held that the land commission award to Kinimaka, after considerable controversy, was binding as against Kalakaua. This opinion it was to which Judge Robertson dissented in the later case.

The later argument thus centered around the question whether the "testamentary guardianship" of Kalakaua by Kinimaka was a legal guardianship.

In the argument before the supreme court at Washington several weeks ago, Attorney Withington was able to bring before the court a strong showing as to the legality of the guardianship as well as to the trusteeship of Kinimaka. With the Robertson opinion holding that the Hawaiian court erred in the Lewers & Cooke decision, the United States court upheld the Kapiolani estate as against Mrs. Atcherley.

Now the presumption is that Lewers & Cooke will be confirmed in their possession of the land so long a subject of dispute. The effect of the latest decision is that Mrs. Atcherley cannot eject the occupants of the premises, having lost her fight against the Kapiolani estate.

Attorney Lyle A. Dicke, now circuit judge on Kauai, is Mrs. Atcherley's attorney. He went to Washington several weeks ago to argue the case. Castle & Withington and local attorneys in various stages of the legal fight have represented the other side.

A special hearing of the petition for naturalization of Alexander Kenworth Alexander, a native of England, is being held in federal court this afternoon. Mr. Alexander's witnesses are Jay A. Urice and Glenn E. Jackson of the Y. M. C. A.

GET EVERY MOTORCYCLE IN HONOLULU IN PARADE

A novel feature of the parade which will be held July 5, the day set by Acting Governor Thayer for celebration of Independence Day in the islands, will be a motorcycle parade in which nearly every motorcycle rider in the city will participate, according to plans in process of formation under the direction of A. K. Vierra.

Already about 40 motorcycle riders have consented to take part in the parade, and Vierra expects to secure many more before the big holiday. His plans call for decorations of each motorcycle with American flags. The parade will start from Ala park at 8 a. m. on the 5th, and will be headed by Motorcycle Policemen Perry, W. R. Chilton and Henry Hustace. Riders wishing to enter the parade may make arrangements with Vierra in the road engineer's office of the city hall building.

WORCESTER HAS SPECIAL MESSAGE TO BUSINESSMEN

Honoluluans, and especially those interested in the Oriental holdings of the United States, look forward to the arrival of Dean C. Worcester on the Mongolia on Friday and to his lectures upon the Philippines.

Besides the lectures "Wild Tribes of the Philippines" and "The Filipinos" to be delivered by Mr. Worcester at the University Club in the evenings of June 21 and 22, he will address the Commercial Club on the subject "Commercial Possibilities of the Philippines." The Commercial Club will honor the speaker with a luncheon Wednesday, June 23.

Mr. Worcester writes that he has a special message for all businessmen in Hawaii who are interested in insular affairs. He will deliver his lectures in Honolulu without compensation, saying that the past hospitality of Honolulu's people on his voyages to and from the Orient makes him a debtor to the people here. The admission charges for the lectures will be 50 cents. The entire proceeds are to go to the Leahi Home.

DAVIES ESTATE WORTH NEARLY HALF MILLION

The estate of Harry Linver Davies, late of Honolulu, is valued at about $450,000, according to an order appointing an ancillary administrator, with will and codicil attached, which was filed in circuit court today. F. M. Swamy has been appointed ancillary administrator under bond in the sum of $500,000.

Mr. Davies' estate consists largely of stocks and bonds in Hawaiian corporations. He held 1616 shares in T. H. Davies & Company, Ltd., valued at $161,600. In the order the heirs are named as follows:

Barbara Chidderoy Davies, widow, and infant son aged about 4 years; Theophilus Clive Davies, brother; George Frederick Davies, brother; Rev. Arthur Whitcliffe Davies, brother; Theophilus Maxwell Davies, brother; Alice Marian Warner, sister, and Violet Mary Young, sister.

Mr. Davies was killed in battle in Belgium on or about October 25, 1914, while fighting with the Allies in the war in Europe. An inventory of the estate is to be filed within 30 days.

MARYLAND STAYS HERE TO GET FRIDAY MAIL

The cruiser Maryland will sail Friday for San Francisco, orders having been received yesterday afternoon by cable. The orders require that the cruiser sail before the 19th, and the present intention of Capt. Kittelle is to wait for the mail boat Friday, sailing as soon as the Mongolia gets in with the Coast mail.

The Maryland is due in San Francisco about the 25th, and will probably remain there until after July 4. She will then return to Honolulu, conveying two of the K class submarines. The tender Rainbow will probably convey the other two K boats that are coming here for station.

CHARGES CRUELTY IN SUIT AGAINST ANGUS

Alleging extreme cruelty, Grace C. Angus has filed in circuit court a suit for divorce against A. B. Angus, district deputy supreme chancellor of the local Knights of Pythias. In the complaint Mrs. Angus alleges cruelty was inflicted to the extent of "often beating and abusing her and threatening to kill her."

On June 6, Angus attacked his wife and attempted to stab her with a pair of scissors, says the complaint. Attached to the suit is an order for service on Mr. Angus, who left for the mainland on the Lurline last Tuesday.

The federal authorities today arrested Charles R. Collins, a fireman on the steamer Wilhelmina, and a resident of Honolulu, on a statutory charge. The defendant has been released on bond in the sum of $500.

SPECIAL SHIPPING PLENTY OF ROOM FOR TOURISTS TO HAWAII

Trans-Pacific steamship companies now operating to the islands do not anticipate difficulty in taking care of all passenger traffic offered between San Francisco and Honolulu," says Donald H. Gilmore, of the passenger department of C. Brewer & Company, representing the Oceanic line, who has just returned from the coast.

"I canvassed the San Francisco situation very thoroughly during the several weeks I spent on the coast. The San Francisco agents for three principal steamship lines are far from being swamped by applications for transportation to Hawaii, and the passenger business by the transcontinental railways has fallen far short of the mark set for it earlier in the season," added Gilmore.

Captain E. P. Olsen, master of the schooner Beulah, brought the lumber-laden vessel into port this morning, 19 days from San Francisco. The Beulah left the coast May 28 with 427,000 feet of redwood to the order of Allen & Robinson of this city. The schooner met with fine weather and a favorable wind.

BRITISH TOMMY WILL WAIT LONG FOR HIS LETTER

Missive From Detroit, Designed for Man in Trenches, is Sent to Honolulu

The postal authorities have a reputation for resourcefulness, and there have been many instances where letters with cryptic superscriptions have been correctly delivered, but there must be one or two prize "boneheads" sandwiched in with the bright young clerks, judging by a letter which was received this morning at army headquarters.

This letter was posted in Detroit, and a British soldier may be wondering why it hasn't reached him. It is addressed as follows:

Mr. Duncan McFayden,
Private No. 14890—Hut No. 4
A Coy. 2d Glasgow Bat.
Gaites Camp, H. L. I.

Presumably the Detroit letter clerk took a squint at the tower right hand corner of the envelope, and managed to get Hawaiian islands out of "H. L. I." Possibly he thought, the L was silent, as in war. At any rate he sacked it for Honolulu, and Private McFayden won't get his letter until the British consul, to whom it will probably be turned over, can re-forward it.

F. S.—To save the curious mental agony and sleepless nights, it may be remarked that H. L. I. stands for Highland Light Infantry.

THEATERS HARD HIT BY FAIR IN SAN FRANCISCO

John Henry Magoon, manager of the Consolidated Amusement Company, returned this morning from a three-months' tour of California, during which time he says he gave the big fair the "once over" on numerous occasions. Mr. Magoon is most enthusiastic over San Francisco's effort to entertain the world, the Canadian exhibit being declared by him to be the most magnificent thing of its kind ever undertaken.

Regarding the Hawaii building Mr. Magoon says:

"The true Hawaiian spirit of courtesy and hospitality is displayed in our own building at any and all times. H. P. Wood and J. W. Doyle are kept constantly on the move promoting the islands and endeavoring to make visitors feel perfectly at home. At all times there is a constant stream through the building, and the praises of Hawaii are sung by all visitors from the various sections of the United States. I feel that we have a representation at the exposition of which Hawaii may well be proud."

According to Mr. Magoon the exposition has proven considerable of a detriment to many San Francisco businessmen, especially in the theatrical field. "Since the opening of the fair business in the different theaters has fallen off to an average of about 40 per cent," he says, "and the managers of the different houses fail to see any relief from the present situation until long after the fair closes. Several big shows that were booked into San Francisco for long engagements 'blew up' in two weeks' time."

"No, I made no new plans for our local houses while away," Mr. Magoon responded to a question. "I investigated all picture offerings that I possibly could, and came to the conclusion that the Paramount and World are absolutely the best services in the motion picture world."

Mrs. Magoon, who accompanied her husband on an extended motor tour through Central California, is greatly improved in health, but will remain at her home in San Francisco for several months.
